

The Texas Bureau of Economic Geology - Economic Geologist Position

The Texas Bureau of Economic Geology (attached to the University of Texas at Austin) has an opening for an economic geologist, non-fuel minerals focus. This is a great opportunity based out of the Pickle Research Center in north Austin. If you or anyone you know is interested in learning more, please contact Prof. Rich Kyle at UT for further details. The job posting, BEG minerals website, and Professor Kyle's email are all below. Please pass this on to anyone else who may be interested.
